Head Plate

The luthier calls a finishing plate which is glued on the bow-head a “head plate”. In general it is made of ebony and ivory, thus within the last years the fossil ivory of the mammoth is used.

Alternatively used are also materials like bones, imitations of ivory, but also silver and gold.

back